

MAINTAINING YOU

The Mindset & Habit Planner

Plan your looks. Keep your routine.
Show up on purpose.

Esther Lady Powers

BEFORE YOU START

Welcome

I used to dress anyhow and call it humble. Then I realized that taking care of myself on purpose is part of showing up for the people I am sent to.

The problem was never that I did not care. It was that I lost track: the appointments, the outfits, the routine I swore I would keep. So I built this planner, and an app, to keep it all in one calm place.

> God looks at the heart. People see you first.
> Both are true.

How to use this planner

1. Shift your mind first. Part one is about what you believe about your looks. Read it, then write your own answers.
2. Set up your habits in Part two. Pick the small things you want to tick off every day.
3. Fill in your month with every appointment: hair, nails, lashes, brows.
4. Plan each week on a weekly page. Write the look, tick the habits.
5. Review your week on Sunday. Three active days make a streak week. Five make a glow week.
6. Celebrate. Every tick counts. A blank box is not failing, it is just a blank box.

The shift

I used to think only the heart matters.

For years I had one verse. "Man looks at the outward appearance, but the Lord looks at the heart." 1 Samuel 16:7.

I loved it. I used it. Mostly I used it as permission. If God only looks at the heart, why spend time on my hair, my nails, what I put on in the morning? So I dressed anyhow and called it humble.

It felt holy. It also felt a little easier.

Then I read my Bible again, and I found out that the verse was never the whole story.

> God looks at the heart. People see you first.
> Both are true.

If you cannot take care of yourself, who will trust you with what matters to them? Beauty is not the point. It can open the door your purpose needs to walk through.

Where did my own belief come from?

The other reason

It was not only the verse. I did not like getting dressed. Everything I bought just did not look right on me.

I would order something, look at the model and automatically think: that is how it will look on me. It never did. Every single time I was disappointed, and every single time I thought I was the problem. My body was the problem. I did not have the hips or the butt the models had.

So shopping stopped being fun. I did not even want to go. I put on whatever was there. And that was another reason I stopped caring how I looked. I had tried. It did not work, and I did not know why.

> My body was never the problem.
> I just did not know what to look for.

Since I understood that, getting dressed is fun. I know right away what goes with what.

My version: when did I decide something was wrong with me?

Same Bible. Same God.

1 SAMUEL 16	David In the same chapter that says the Lord looks at the heart, the Bible stops to tell us how David looked: ruddy, beautiful eyes, a handsome appearance.
GENESIS 24	Rebekah Introduced as very beautiful. Four verses later she waters ten thirsty camels for a stranger. Beauty and character in one story.
GENESIS 41	Joseph Pulled out of prison in a hurry, he shaves and changes his clothes before he stands in front of Pharaoh.
RUTH 3	Ruth Naomi gives her a plan before the biggest meeting of her life: wash, anoint yourself, put on your best clothes. Then go.
ESTHER 2	Esther A whole year of beauty treatment before she met the king: six months with oil of myrrh, six months with perfumes and cosmetics.

What research says

Under 30 seconds.

Harvard psychologists Ambady and Rosenthal (1993) found that quick judgments from silent clips of under 30 seconds predicted how teachers were rated at the end of the semester. First impressions form fast.

5 to 10 percent.

Economists Hamermesh and Biddle (1994) found that people rated plain-looking earned roughly 5 to 10 percent less than people of average looks.

Fair warning: these studies measure first impressions and how interviewers rated looks, not outfits or routines. Nobody can swap their face. How you take care of yourself, what you wear and how prepared you are is the part you can influence.

Old belief, new belief

Write the sentence you have been telling yourself. Then write the one you choose now. Use the first two rows as examples.

OLD BELIEF	NEW BELIEF
Only the heart matters, so I do not need to care how I look.	God looks at the heart. People see me first. Both are true.
My body is the problem.	I did not know what to look for. I am learning what suits me.

A belief changes when you replace it, not when you fight it. Read the new column out loud.

7 days of mindset

One question a day. Answer it while you tick your habits.

Day 1 What did I believe about getting dressed, and where did I learn it?

Day 2 Which verse or sentence have I used as permission not to care?

Day 3 What did I do today so I am prepared, not perfect?

Day 4 What do I like about my body today? Name three things.

Day 5 What do I need to look for in clothes that fit my shape?

Day 6 Who am I sent to, and how do I want to show up for them?

Day 7 What would I tell the woman I was a year ago?

My identity statements

Short sentences you say about yourself on purpose. Use mine, then write your own.

> I take care of myself on purpose.

> My body is not the problem. I am learning what suits it.

> I show up prepared for the people I am sent to.

> It is time to take off the glasses of limitation and put in the contact lenses of capability.

Mine

Read it every morning, out loud, while you do your skincare.

My daily habits

Six habits I tick off most days. Keep them, change them, add your own.

- [ ] Skincare AM
- [ ] Skincare PM
- [ ] Hair care
- [ ] Nails + cuticle oil
- [ ] Body oil
- [ ] Scent
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____
- [ ] _____

Why these?

Small, daily and honest. Skincare morning and night, a moment for your hair, your nails, your body and a scent that stays. If a habit never gets ticked, swap it for one you will actually do.

My one reason

My care rhythm

Some things do not need doing daily. Note when you last did them and when they are due again.

CARE	RHYTHM	LAST DONE	NEXT DUE	BOOKED
Nail fill or fresh set	every 21 days
Lash lift or fill	every 28 days
Brow shaping	every 21 days
Wash + deep condition	every 7 days
Trim or hair treatment	every 56 days
Exfoliate + face mask	every 7 days
Body scrub + oil	every 7 days
Lip scrub + mask	every 7 days
Pedicure	every 28 days
Choose your scent	every 7 days

Rhythms are my suggestions. Change them to fit your hair, your nails and your life.
